

The Year Ten Sixty-six

(To accompany Domesday)

Verse 1

Gather round good people, we have a song to sing.
It's a tale of bloody battle 'tween men who would be king.
They craved the crown of England, on that their hearts
were fixed,
So they fought the battle of Hastings in the year ten sixty-six.
(In the year ten sixty-six.)

Verse 2

One man's name was Harold, he was a Saxon Lord.
He felt that the throne of England should be his just reward.
His rival's name was William, the Duke of Normandy,
Who said that to rule a kingdom was his royal destiny.
(Was his royal destiny.)

Verse 3

Now the crown was worn by Edward, an old and saintly man.
And as he grew close to dying, the rivals made their plans.
Both men thought to seize the crown when Edward was no more.
So in the year ten sixty-six, both sides prepared for war.
(Both sides prepared for war. Both sides prepared for war.)

We Shall Remember

(To accompany The Sentinel)

Verse 1

You gave us our freedom,
And the world we see today
Is shaped by your bravery.
We won't let it pass away.

Verse 2

You live on in photographs,
A world in shades of grey.
You battled through the night
So that we might see the day.

Chorus

Now we shall remember,
And at the dimming of the day,
Always we shall remember,
We won't let you fade away.
Now we shall remember,
And at the dimming of the day,
Always we shall remember,
We won't let you fade away.

Verse 3

You had no time for evil.
You had no room for hate.
You did what you had to do.
You didn't choose your fate.

Repeat verse 1

Chorus
